This report on the Tennessee Hospital Emergency Room Drug Study was co-authored by Ian R.H. Rockett, Ph.D., M.P.H., Sandra L. Putnam, M.Sc., Ph.D., Tanya Ergh, B.A., and James A. Malia, Ph.D., of the Community Health Research Group (CHRG) at The University of Tennessee, Knoxville. The study was conducted through a sub-contract on behalf of the Tennessee Department of Health's Bureau of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Services with funding from the U.S. Center for Substance Abuse Treatment (CSAT) under the Federal Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). It could not have been implemented without the generous cooperation and great dedication of many individuals. These include Commander Lura Abbott, Wynona Bachon, Dr. James Beard, Dr. Daniel Brookoff, Dr. Cheryl Cherpitel, Teresa Coleman, Kennedy Croom, Jr., Dr. Samuel Evans, Debbie Gaffney, Tracy Garrett, Dr. Christopher Gillespie, Shirley Hutton, Dr. Arthur Kellermann, Richard Land, Lonnell Mathews, Julie Meadows, Dr. Thomas Mieczkowski, Bonnie Morrow, Dr. Frank Murabito, Dr. Jon Owings, Corrine Porter, Peggy Putnam, Dr. Alan Romans, Rose Scalise, Dr. Gordon Smith, Kevin Smith, Dr. Robert Stephenson, Steve West, and Debby Winters.

The authors also wish to express their extreme gratitude to fellow CHRG staff, whose roles covered interviewer recruiting and training, field coordination, bioanalysis, computer programming, data entry, statistical sampling, and tabulation and document preparation. They are Fred Stout, Dr. Hiaomao Jia, Renee Johnson, John Simpson, Suzanne Streagle, Michelle Blackwell, Valerie Brewer, Kim Burley, Beverly Kreis, Dr. David P. Adams, and Peter D. Hart.
